- 3 Western Corridor heading to Northern Serengeti: June and July
- 4 Northern Serengeti to Masai Mara: July to October - millions of wildebeest and zebras cross the Mara River. Depending on weather conditions, they can migrate to Masai Mara and return to Serengeti twice during that particular period. The migration can be expected to move either way with no particular set direction.
- 5 Masai Mara to Northern Serengeti, Loliondo and Lobo: October to mid-December

The savannah fields of the Serengeti and the Ngorongoro Crater in the northern side offer the safari of show and legend, while Africa's most famous mountain, Mount Kilimanjaro, known as the Roof of Africa, needs some introduction. It is the only free-standing mountain in the world that can be climbed without the help of any machine equipment.

The island of Zanzibar lures with turquoise shades, white sparkling sands, and UNESCO legacy, improving the colorful accumulation of Tanzania, making it captivating for any African safari fan or novice.

Tanzania's national parks cover 25 percent of Tanzania and are estimated to hold 20 percent of Africa's warm-blooded animals. The acclaimed Serengeti is particularly colossal (5,700 square miles), and on various events, it's more noteworthy than the Maasai Mara Reserve. It is considered by specialists and voyagers alike to be a hero among the most prime locales to see swarms of untamed life, including the Big Five, correspondingly, crocodiles, while also playing host to the infamous prominent wildebeest migration, as their incalculable hooves cross the savannah, vigorously sought after by hungry predators.

The 20 kilometers wide Ngorongoro Crater contains some portion of a security zone. It is referred to as the Eighth Wonder of the World and Africa's Eden. As the best broken-down caldera on earth, with dividers of up to 600 meters, the wretchedness itself is a circumstance whose floor is piled up with fundamentally every species of creature in East Africa, including the predators, giving the untamed life-lover a phenomenal, amazing, close-up perspective on everyday life.

ARUSHA NATIONAL PARK

Spread over an area of 137 square kilometers, Arusha National Park is one of the smaller, yet most captivating national parks in Tanzania, lying between the pinnacles of Mount Kilimanjaro and Mount Meru. It's a small, yet enchanting park that is found 15 square kilometers from the town of Arusha.

Depicted as a jewel among parks for its magnificence and striking variety of wildlife and natural surroundings, the park's fantastic highlights incorporate the shallow antacid Momela Lakes, well known for their birdlife, both inhabitant and transient, particularly the flamingos, and the Ngurdoto Crater, a 3 kilometers square whole caldera, whose wildlife has earned the epithet of "Little Ngorongoro."

The sight of thousands of pink-hued flamingos crowding the lake is breathtaking.

Overlooking the park is Mount Meru, a dormant stratovolcano located 70 kilometers west of Mount Kilimanjaro in the southeast Arusha Region. At a height of 4,562 meters (14,968 feet), it is visible from Mount Kilimanjaro on a clear day. It is the second highest mountain in Tanzania and the fifth most elevated mountain in Africa.

The backwoods contain an abundance of winged creatures and wildlife, including bison, elephants, hippos, giraffes, warthogs, zebras, impalas, and the striking, highly contrasting colobus and blue monkeys, moving along their branches. Leopards and hyenas are observed once in a while, and lions are missing inside and out of the park. It has in excess of 400 types of winged creatures, both vagrant and inhabitant, including colossal transitory fowls, grebes, African pilchards, Egyptian geese, and an assortment of herons and egrets. Delegated falcons can be found in the park close by, along with a wide assortment of butterflies and storks.

LAKE MANYARA NATIONAL PARK

Covering around 330 square kilometers, two of which are 66 % submerged, Lake Manyara National Park, though a small park, is an enchanting park. It contains a variety of territories, animals, and an abundance of colorful birds.

Lake Manyara National Park is situated underneath the precipices of the Manyara escarpment on the edge of the Rift Valley and offers incredible views of amusing wildlife and birdlife. The scene is diverse to the point that its warmblooded creatures and bird records are probably the greatest in Tanzania. The park incorporates a noteworthy bit of the lake and its shores and extensive zones of groundwater backwoods with fig and mahogany trees intermixed with acacia forest and open marshlands. Lake Manyara National Park offers varied environments, stunning perspectives, and an unfathomable biological assortment in a smaller territory, wealthy in wildlife and containing an astounding quantity of birds. Lake Manyara's diversity incorporates bison and wildebeest; giraffes; zebra; warthogs; impalas; Kirk's dik-dik; waterbuck, which are close to a portion of the springs; klipspringer on the slopes of the escarpment; and tree-climbing lions. Also obvious are large troops of primates, which frequently number in the hundreds. They are generally viewed as Africa's largest.

The park gives the ideal introduction to Tanzania's birdlife. Lake Manyara is home to an unimaginable cluster of birdlife. In excess of 400 species have been recorded. These incorporate a large number of pink-toned flamingos and an extensive number of water birds; for example, pelicans, cormorants, herons, egrets, stilts, storks, spoonbills and yellow-charged birds.

THE NGORONGORO CRATER

The Ngorongoro Crater delivers Africa's most straightforward "Big Five" game viewing. An antiquated volcanic crater lying near the Serengeti, it is home to the densest concentrations of huge animals in Africa. Just as the Big Five - lion, elephant, wild buffalo, leopards and rhino - the Ngorongoro Crater is likewise home to cheetahs, hyenas, and hippos. There are also crowds of cattle as well, tended by attentive red-robed Maasai herders, for the Ngorongoro Crater is the place where man and nature meet up on a solitary view.

Ngorongoro is home to the awe-inspiring Ngorongoro Crater, the world's largest caldera, at its middle. It is trusted that before its emission, it stood higher than Mount Kilimanjaro, the most noteworthy pinnacle of Africa. In addition, it's also a spot made for views. There are several Ngorongoro accommodations that are fittingly set on the rim of the crater itself, offering the most spectacular savannah view of grassland or exquisite coffee estates. Visiting the Ngorongoro Crater is a must-do on any African safari lover's dream list. The Crater is a well-known goal, as it can effectively be joined with the Serengeti, Lake Manyara, and even Kenya's Maasai Mara Reserve.

Honeymooners will love the pure perspectives from their crater-side suite, while families will discover lodges that welcome kids and offer family safari projects, along with offering childcare. Furthermore, in spite of the fact that game viewing on the crater floor is Ngorongoro's primary draw card, guests will discover many different activities. It offers bird watching, cultural tours, mountain biking, and strolling safaris. Lodges frequently serve suppers in outdoor settings under a starry sky. Some lodges also have a wellbeing specialist masseuse.

SERENGETI NATIONAL PARK

Home to the world's most noteworthy single concentration of untamed life, Serengeti National Park is the "Africa of the Imagination." Known as "the land that goes on forever," its rolling savannahs are the place where elephants, wild buffalo, big cats, and antelope co-exist with red-robed Maasai herders. The Serengeti has diverse changes in geography, including meadows, savannahs, backwoods, bushes, swamps, kopjes, slopes and waterways. The Serengeti offers the absolute best wildlife viewing in Africa. All of the expected safari animals are present in extraordinary numbers. Cheetahs and four of the Big Five are effectively observed, yet rhinos are available.

Besides the enormous cats, numerous different hyenas (particularly in the early morning hours of the day) jackal and bat-eared fox wander about. It is obviously most acclaimed for its yearly wildebeest relocation, when over a million creatures move between the Serengeti and Kenya's Maasai Mara. It is in the Serengeti that the absolute most energizing parts of the migration play out. During the birthing season, there are up to 400,000 calves born. The wildebeest herds run the gauntlet of colossal crocodiles as they come back to the Maasai Mara.

Be that as it may, you don't need to travel to the Serengeti during migration season to appreciate excellent game viewing. Untamed life is consistently visible, and the park has universal notoriety for predators - big cats, hyenas, birds of prey, and wild dogs. Aside from the exciting amusement drives and entrancing scenes, Serengeti has more to offer, such as strolling visits, cultural tours, and nighttime safaris. Thus, in the event that you are on an excursion to Tanzania, don't miss visiting this incredibly famous park.

TARANGIRE NATIONAL PARK

Covering an undulating 2,600 square kilometers, Tarangire National Park lies between the fields of the Maasai step towards the southeast and the lakes of the Great Rift Valley toward the North and West. A large part of the park is prairie, together with swamplands and flood fields which feed the Tarangire River.

Extensive baobab trees, especially in the northern segment of the park, stand spotted over the scene, overwhelming the view. Being so massive, you would think that these trees are almost indestructible, but there's another giant in the bush that can cause great damage; the African elephant. In times of water shortage or elephant overpopulation, baobabs become very popular. Elephants instinctively know that baobabs store water, and especially in the dry season, when water is scarce, they will look for baobab trees to quench their thirst. But elephants depend on water on a more regular basis. They need a water supply of more than 100 liters per animal per day!

Tarangire Park contains nine diverse vegetation zones, each supporting various unmistakable kinds of wildlife. The park is named after the Tarangire River, which goes through the focal point of the park, providing the main perpetual water source in the zone. Amid the dry season, the stream serves water to expansive elephant crowds; lions; cheetahs; leopards; zebras; klipspringer; dik-diks; kudus; oryx; warthogs; hyenas and African wild canines; the delicate giraffe; and groups of monkeys and hippos. Water levels stay sufficiently high to make the waterway a perpetual wellspring of water. There are a vast number of elephant groups that assemble here, as do numerous wildebeest and zebras.

There is likewise a huge population of impala, eland, wild ox, Thompson's gazelle, Coke's hartebeest, bohor reedbuck, and both greater and lesser kudu found here. Lions are very commonly seen all through Tarangire, as are leopards, while cheetahs appear to inhabit the more open territories of the south. Spotted hyenas are generally nearby, as are African wild canines in some cases, though sightings of them are uncommon.

The park is another park where you can witness tree-climbing lions. It is additionally popular for its African Pythons, which are known for climbing trees. There are also enormous groups of bison and substantial crowds of elephants. More than 500 types of winged animals/birds have been recorded in the park. The park offers beautiful perspectives on savannah lands, acacia stands, bunches of baobab trees, and beautiful sunsets. Tarangire is an amazing "soul-touching" experience to witness while on safari in Tanzania.

HOT AIR BALLOON SAFARI

Ballooning occurs at first light, which infers a pre-day wakeup with a cup of steaming coffee and a nippy drive to the location of the dispatch. The sentiment of enthusiasm swells through you as these exceptionally large balloons steadily load up with the travelers, which adds to the excitement and energy and improves the unexpected quietness when you reach cruising stature. The bustle of the warming flame mixes with the quiet nearby and the sensitive whistle of airstreams, along with the collective "oohhs" and "aahhs" from your co-travelers.

The land underneath you is quiet in the serenity of first light as daybreak spreads out in magnificent tints on the eastern horizon. As the earth warms up, untamed life begins to move. The cool of the early morning is the best time of day for redirection, and a balloon safari gives you an especially incredible point of view of the fields below. The balloon can fly reasonably low over gigantic gatherings (unlike helicopters and light aircraft delivery), making this a remarkably different way to see the full marvel of the Great Wildebeest Migration. When you contact down on solid earth afresh, a sparkling glass of champagne and a casual breakfast await you, orchestrated and served on the savannah - the perfect end to an amazing, peaceful, safari experience.

TOUR HIGHLIGHTS:

Float in a hot air balloon safari over the famous Serengeti National Park with its enchanting scenery and vistas.

A Serengeti hot air balloon ride is an adventure that can easily be included in safari itineraries that include at least two nights in central Serengeti or western corridor camps.

You take off at dawn, rising as the sun rises, as you float in whichever direction the winds of the morning take us.

PROFESSIONAL HONEYMOON SAFARI

World Safari Land Tours offers the best Tanzania honeymoon safari packages. This holiday is not only going to be intimate, but with Tanzania in your itinerary, you can expect something unique, thrilling, and unforgettable. These exclusive honeymooners' delights are sure to enhance your experience in Tanzania.

As a newlywed couple, we recommend you visit off-the beaten path destinations that are less crowded with tourists. You can expect luxurious accommodations and unique excursions in privacy, including walking safaris, candlelit dinners under the baobab tree, and magical driving safaris. If you are an adventure lover, Serengeti is a thrilling honeymoon destination. Zanzibar, Matemwe and Nungwi are popular for hosting wedding couples on uncrowned beaches and boutique hotels. A combination of a safari and beach package makes for an ideal honeymoon itinerary, guaranteeing long-lasting memories that will last throughout your lifetime.

TOUR HIGHLIGHTS

This safari will take you through the highlights of the three popular parks of northern Tanzania. The tour starts at Tarangire, famous for its dense wildlife population. Then you will go on to Serengeti, a big game haven that hosts over three million large mammals. You will then head to the Ngorongoro Crater, which supports a year-round resident population of over 25,000 wild animals.

Serengeti wildebeest migration is a display of natural wonders with over two million wildebeests, zebras and antelopes traveling over 450 miles across the plain to ensure their survival, unaware that there is danger presented by the stalking lions and cheetahs. Among other predators of the wildlife, witness huge crocodiles of the Mara River as they wait for herbivores to cross the swollen Mara River and enter into Maasai Mara Game Reserve from Serengeti National Park. The wildebeest migration/river crossing in August moves north, passing through Lobo Valley (north of central Serengeti National Park) and the Wagakuria area (northern Serengeti National Park along the Mara River) en route to Kenya's Maasai Mara Game Reserve.

GREAT WILDEBEEST MIGRATION

Natural wonders happen all throughout the world, but few can battle with the yearly wildebeest migration in the Serengeti. The numbers alone are difficult to imagine. See up to two million animals - wildebeest proportionally, and zebras and gazelles - as they move clockwise around this gigantic structure, driven by old inspirations to discover greener grass and water.

A show on an unfathomable epic scale, the moving social gatherings experience all method of inconveniences and hardships as they move from a region to a district while steadily proceeding through an assault from predators, none more so than Africa's felines and extensive numbers of huge crocodiles that lie in wait up at the Mara waterway crossing.

The wildebeest migration occurs between two nations - Kenya and Tanzania. It is a liquid, momentous event that's subject to dealing with that year's downpours. It's in like manner an occasion of various encounters, depending upon where you are and at what time you may see the wildebeest, as they move in remarkably dusty fragments, or as they redirect transversely over streams.

There is much comfort found in the Serengeti, and every single safari visit to either nation combines these wonders into the two confirmation zones.

To set your eyes on the Great Wildebeest Migration, work with World Safari Land Tours' experts to make an itinerary for you, subject to your needs. Our insight and experience guarantees that you'll be in safe hands to watch this incredibly epic occasion.

MOUNT KILIMANJARO

One of Africa's most distinguished symbols, Mount Kilimanjaro is the continent's best known and most noteworthy mountain, and it shows up on just about every explorer's must-do list. What's more, when you see the snow-topped pinnacle of this lofty mountain, you will understand why various routes to the summit are accessible, and you can choose which route, depending on how much time you have, your level of fitness, and how far off the beaten track you need to get. We at World Safari Land Tours can instruct you with respect to the best routes for you and we will handle all of the perplexing and vital plans to ensure you have the best Kilimanjaro experience.

Since no machine equipment is required, climbing Kilimanjaro demands a sensible dimension of wellness and some steely assurance. It ought never be disparaged, nor attempted by anybody other than a respectable, reliable administrator. The prizes for trekkers are, without a doubt, advantageous for this more than insignificant mountain. Shaped by the coming together of three volcanoes, which are now wiped out, Mount Kilimanjaro goes through various unmistakable vegetation zones on its way skywards. The descent's variety of timberland, moorland and ice scenes ensures the gutsy climber the opportunity to appreciate a captivating amount of animals, bugs and vegetation - welcome diversions, maybe, from the more rigorous challenge of climbing.

ZANZIBAR BEACH HOLIDAYS

Zanzibar Beach holidays give the perfect combination between immaculate beaches and beautiful islands. Spreading out into the attractive Zanzibar archipelago, it offers a hypnotizing blend of nature and humankind. The beaches of Zanzibar are a slice of heaven with white sandy shorelines and perpetual blue skies. It is the absolute perfect spot to loosen up and dunk your toes in the tropical warmth of the Indian Ocean, while you permit the night sun to calm you into doing close to nothing other than relaxing. Let the effect of the lounge chairs allow you to unwind from the faster pace of a standard safari.

Those inclined to accomplish more in this magnificent location can go diving and investigate the spellbinding marine life and encounter the dynamic shades of the coral reefs. You could also choose to take a sailboat over the sun-kissed cyan ocean, as you feel the delicate breeze. Up for an adventure? Raise your pulse with a fly sky ride, before the call of Zanzibar's disengaged inlets and the coast's unadulterated pace of life winds up being too welcoming to even consider neglecting. Regardless, it's not only about beaches and coral reefs. Zanzibar has a captivating blend of culture and cooking. A Zanzibar beach holiday is the ideal pathway to loosen up and relax.

FOUR DAYS ZANZIBAR STONE TOWN

Zanzibar, an archipelago off the coast of Tanzania, is one of Africa's best-known destinations. It is noted for its old historic Centre of Stone Town and stunning beaches. You will be taken on interesting tours to the House of Wonders, palaces, museums, mosques, and Arab forts, among many others. There will be a visit to spice plantations, which is what originally brought the Sultans of Oman, which then commenced the start of the slave trade. You will also indulge in the white sands and clear waters of Kendwa Beach for that much-deserved holiday.

SEVEN DAYS EXPERIENCE OF ZANZIBAR

Stone Town is a cultural hub in Zanzibar, a place you shouldn't miss when coming to this beautiful island. The city is a UNESCO World Heritage Site with a charming vibe, where people live their lives on display. Stone Town is packed with history from both the spice and slave trade. Our experienced tour guide will tell you how life is lived today and show you the best of the culture, history and ornate architecture.

This tour will take you to visit Jozani Forest, one of the last remaining sanctuaries in the world of the Red Colobus Monkeys.

PRISON ISLAND

Changuu Island, also known as Prison Island, is just off the coast of Stone Town, Zanzibar. Now a tourist attraction, Prison Island was once a place where slaves were detained, and at one point, it also served as a place of quarantine. The boat ride from Stone Town takes 20-30 minutes and the seas at times can be a bit rough. Upon arrival on the island, there is a rustic wooden bridge that hovers a few meters above the water, jetting out into the sea. On one side of Prison Island is a refuge for giant Aldabra sea tortoises. A five-minute walk across the island leads to the former prison ruins. Though in their successful days, it was a torturous place to be, nowadays the ocean cliffs, the overgrowth of the plants on the stone walls, and the view of the turquoise ocean are gorgeous! The sandy beach on the island is a quiet place where no one will bother you and you can peacefully relax or sunbathe. If you would like to snorkel, a boat will take you a few meters offshore, where you can disembark into deeper water with a small area of coral. Though it may be different from other attractions on the island of Zanzibar, if you have free time in Stone Town, visiting Prison Island in Zanzibar is a fun day trip.
